

Search MSN Money: Help

Home News Banking Investing Planning Taxes My Money

Portfolio Loans Insurance

Banking Home My Accounts Bill Pay Mortgages/Loans Services Credit Reports

Financial Tools

Track your bills

Resources

Decision Centers

Home Buying Guide

Home Financing

Your Credit Rating

Financial Privacy

Better Banking

Credit Card Smarts

Bankruptcy Guide

Commentary Index

Related Links

Manage Debt

More on Budgeting

Print-friendly version
Send this to a friend

Decision Center

Bankruptcy guide

more on this topic

Debt evaluation calculator

Consolidate your debts

View your credit report

U.S. bankruptcy rates

Find It!

Article Index

Finance Q&A

Tools Index

Site map

The Basics

12 myths about bankruptcy

Sometimes, a fresh start makes sense -- if you can get past what you think you know. Here's how bankruptcy affects your credit, your possessions and your karma. advertisement

By Bankrate.com

Like most big, bad, scary things, bankruptcy has a reputation based on a few tidbits of truth and lots of embellishment. And like most creepy crawlies, it's not nearly as frightening once you know the truth.

With a mind toward declawing the monster, here are a dozen misconceptions about bankruptcy:

Everyone will know I've filed for bankruptcy. Unless you're a prominent person or a major corporation and the filing is picked up by the media, the chances are very good that the only people who will know about a filing are your creditors. While it's true that bankruptcy is a public legal proceeding, the numbers of people filing are so massive, very few publications have the space, the manpower or the inclination to run all of them.

All debts are wiped out in Chapter 7 bankruptcy. You wish. Certain types of debts cannot be erased. They include child support and alimony, student loans and debts incurred as the result of fraud. If you've defrauded someone and a judgment has been made against you, that won't be erased either.

I'll lose everything I have. This is the misconception that keeps people who really should file for bankruptcy from doing it, says Chris Viale, chief operating officer of Massachusetts-based Cambridge Credit Counseling.

Find a loan that's right for you at the Loan Center

"They think the government will sell everything they have and they'll have to start over in a cardboard box," Viale says.

While the bankruptcy laws vary from state to state, every state has

Also on MSN

Books on bankruptcy at MSN Shopping

Recent articles by Bankrate.com:

- Those low-interest-for-life card deals, 3/8/2004
- 21 ways to vacation like a millionaire, 3/2/2004
- 6 reasons your home isn't selling, 2/29/2004
More...

Related Resources

Decision Center: Take control of your debt

exemptions that protect certain kinds of assets, such as your house, your car (up to a certain value), money in qualified retirement plans, household goods and clothing.

"For most people, they'll pass through a bankruptcy case and keep everything they have," says John Hargrave, a bankruptcy trustee in New Jersey. If you have a mortgage or a car loan, you can keep those as long as you keep making the payments (like the rest of us).

I'll never get credit again. Quite the contrary. It won't be long before you're getting credit card offers again. They'll just be from subprime lenders that will charge very high interest rates. "There are innumerable companies that will provide credit to you," says California bankruptcy attorney and trustee Howard Ehrenberg. "I don't advise any of my clients to run out and run up the bills again, but if someone does need an automobile, they can go and will be able to get credit. You don't have to go underground or something to get money."

However, if you're planning to buy a house or a car, you might want to do that before you file. Those loans will be tough to get, and the higher interest rate on such a large purchase would make a significant impact on your payments. Also, if you have a credit card with a zero balance on the day you file for bankruptcy, you don't have to list it as a creditor since you don't owe any money on it. That means you might be able to keep that card even after the bankruptcy.

If you're married, both spouses have to file for bankruptcy. Not necessarily. "It's not uncommon for one spouse to have a significant amount of debt in their name only," Hargrave says. However, if spouses have debts they want to discharge that they're both liable for, they should file together. Otherwise, the creditor will simply demand payment for the entire amount from the spouse who didn't file.

It's really hard to file for bankruptcy. It's really not. You don't even technically need an attorney. However, it's not recommended to go through the procedure without one.

Only deadbeats file for bankruptcy. Most people file for bankruptcy after a life-changing experience, such as a divorce, the loss of a job or a serious illness. They've struggled to pay their bills for months and just keep falling further behind.

I don't want to include certain creditors in my filing because it's important to me to pay them back someday and if the debt is discharged, I can't ever repay them. Bless you for even thinking about such a thing. You're no longer obligated to repay them, but you always have that opportunity. If your conscience won't let you sleep nights because you didn't pay your debts, there's nothing in the bankruptcy code that prevents you from doing that once you're back on your feet. But bankruptcy is an all-or-nothing deal, so you have to include all your creditors in the petition.

Filing for bankruptcy will improve my credit rating because all those debts will be gone. That sounds like an ad for a bankruptcy lawyer trolling for clients. Filing for bankruptcy is the worst 'negative' you can have on your credit report. Unlike other negatives, which stay on your report for seven years, bankruptcy can be there for 10 years.

You can't get rid of back taxes through bankruptcy. Generally speaking, this is true. However, there is such a thing as tax bankruptcy, says tax educator Eva Rosenberg, known on the Web as Tax Mama. To get a shot at it, you have to file all your returns and the taxes owed need to be at least three years old.

You can only file for bankruptcy once. The truth is, you can only file for Chapter 7 bankruptcy once every six years, Hargrave says. For Chapter 13 reorganization, you can file more often than that, but you can't have more than one case open at the same time, he says.

Of course, that doesn't make it a good idea.

"Multiple bankruptcies are really bad," Rosenberg says. "Many people get into the habit of once they've done it, it becomes a way of life. This is not good for your karma." Or your credit rating.

I can max out all my credit cards, file for bankruptcy, and never pay for the things I bought. That's called fraud, and bankruptcy judges can get really cranky about it. The trustee in your case will review all your purchases right before your filing. He knows what to look for.

Rate this article

Would you recommend this article to a friend?

Not a Chance 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 Absolutely

Editors' choice

- Simpler way to save: the 60% solution
- Is the new wave in health insurance for you?
- Can the U.S. stop using oil by 2050?
- Hosed at the gas pump -- by your debit card
- Turn \$1 a day into \$67,815

Readers' choice

- Ratings Top 5 Articles
- 9.37 10 ways to stop identity theft cold
 - 9.36 Keep thieves out of your bank account
 - 9.30 Zombie debt collectors dig up your old mistakes
 - 9.27 'Phishing' scams: How to avoid getting hooked
 - 9.20 Safeguard your Social Security number

View all top rated articles

More Resources

advertisement

- E-mail us your comments on this article
- Post on the Your Money message board
- Get a daily dose of market news

Search MSN Money tips

Sponsored Links

Official site: Caribbean Resorts

The Caribbean's popular islands and resorts. Superclubs' luxurious Grand Lido's, the active Breezes, and...
www.superclubs.com

Win a Trip to the Caribbean with Hilton

Book incredible Caribbean vacation packages. Experience the sapphire blue waters of the Caribbean and...
www.hiltonesapes.com

Dominican Houses and Villas for Sale

Exclusive villas and properties for sale in the area from Sosua and Cabarete in different prices. Starting... www.dominican-real-estate.com

MSN Money's editorial goal is to provide a forum for personal finance and investment ideas. Our articles, columns, message board posts and other features should not be construed as investment advice, nor does their appearance imply an endorsement by Microsoft of any specific security or trading strategy. An investor's best course of action must be based on individual circumstances.

